COMPLICATIONS ADDED

Convoy Discussions Take New Turn on Nazi Warning on Shipping.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Non-interventionist senators indicated today after a strategy conference that they are considering postponing full-dress debate on the convoy issue until after President Roosevelt has delivered his fireside chat to the nation on May 27.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The senate today took up the administration's bill for acquisition of idle foreign shipping, while the accompanying discussion of convoys developed a fresh turn because of Germany's warning to commerce plying the Red sea.

Administration leaders looked for quick work on the ship measure, predicting its approval as drafted within a week.

Opponents saw little hope of defeating the legislation, which already has house approval, and they were divided over the wisdom of attempting to write into the bill the anti-convoy rider sponsored by Senator Tobey (R., N. H.).

Off the senate floor, meanwhile, the opinion was advanced in some quarters that Germany's decision to make the northern Red sea area an official war zone might eventually change the status of the convoy or ship protection question. It was pointed out that in the past the combat zone proclaimed under the neutrality act has had the effect of keeping U. S. shipping out of the areas officially posted by Germany as zones of unrestricted sea warfare, even though this country never conceded the Nazi right to set up such zones.

Now, however, the sea war zone has been extended to waters which never were forbidden in the Indian ocean blocking the to American shipping under the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

WARNS JAPAN

Eden Declares Economic Fight To Be Continued.

LONDON—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden bluntly warned Japan today that British economic restrictions against her would not be eased unless Japan recognizes British rights in China.

He said instructions to this effect had been sent to the British ambassador at Tokyo.

(Both the British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, and the United States envoy, Joseph C. Grew, conferred separately today with Japanese Foreign Minister Matsukata, said a dispatch from Tokyo.)

Speaking in the house of commons, Eden declared also that Britain had "great sympathy with Syrian aspirations for independence." (The British fear Syria may become a route for a German drive on Suez from Asia Minor.)

Winant Sees Navies Vital In Destinies of Free Countries

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—United States Ambassador John G. Winant told the English speaking union today that "freedom-loving and peace-loving people of this earth are coming to realize that this is not Britain's fight alone and that their destinies may depend on the use they make of their navies."

The ambassador declared that "so far, the Totalitarians have been appallingly successful" in "keeping their threats and breaking their promises," warning that "when dictators conspire together, men and women of good will everywhere must act together."

"We are engaged in the greatest struggle in history to preserve freedom in the modern world," the ambassador said.

BRAVES OPEN LOOP SEASON

Meet Lima Pandas In Ohio State League Lid Lifter Tilt.

Man'sfield's first home-owned team in organized baseball since 1912 prices off its seasonal lid today at 8 p. m. at the Fairground when the Braves tangle with the Lima Pandas in an Ohio State league tilt.

Way back in 1912 Paul Sturges, now president of the Central Fruit company, owned the Mansfield entry in the old Ohio State league. Since that date Mansfield's professional clubs in organized baseball have been controlled wholly or in part by outside capital.

Opening night ceremonies will be brief and to the point, and will include as their chief feature the introduction of the individual members of the club.

Following the individual bow of the Braves, Mayor Locke will toss out the first ball, and Chuck Byers will take over the mound assignment for Mansfield with Tim Mangan behind the platter.

Tonight's game will mark the first time that the Ohio State league's new membership tickets will be honored at the Fairground gate. Under this plan season tickets purchased for two dollars will take an additional 20 cents for admission to the park, and (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

Advises Union Withdrawal as Shipyard and Munitions Walkouts Continue.

(By Associated Press)
Threatened tie-ups of the Appalachian soft coal fields and of General Motors' 60 factories confronted defense production officials today even as they attempted to re-open 11 strike-closed shipyards on San Francisco bay and the important Colt's munitions plant at Hartford, Conn.

John L. Lewis, president of the CIO United Mine Workers, said that unless southern mine operators reached an agreement this week with the union on a new wage contract, he would recommend that the 330,000 union miners withdraw from the eight-state Appalachian field, probably by May 21.

Seventy per cent of the nation's bituminous coal production was halted throughout April by a similar mine stoppage.

Another CIO union, the United Automobile Workers, has set a deadline of 7 a. m. tomorrow for a strike against General Motors corporation, unless an agreement is reached meanwhile on the union's demand for wage increases of 10 cents an hour. Company officials say the current, average scale now is slightly more than $1 an hour.

The corporation has about $700,000,000 worth of defense orders but a union official said that not more than $160,000,000 worth would be affected by a strike. And with the firm's consent, he declared, the union would undertake to continue work on that portion of the orders.

After the April shutdown, the soft coal mines were reopened under a temporary agreement, with southern operators raising the basic daily scale from $5.50 to $6.60, but balking at meeting the new scale of $7 a day demanded by the northern operators. Elimination of the 40-cent daily (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Committee Votes Down Plan to Limit FDR Money Powers.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The house committee, by a 13 to 6 vote along straight party lines, today reversed itself and rejected a previously adopted amendment to curb President Roosevelt's powers to fix the gold content of the dollar.

The committee yesterday had voted 9 to 7 in favor of such an amendment to pending legislation to extend the president's monetary powers and the $2,000,000,000 treasury stabilization fund for another two years beginning July 1.

The amendment would place a ceiling of $35 per ounce to the price that might be paid for foreign gold. That is the current price, but under the present law, Mr. Roosevelt may increase it to $41 per ounce.

Knudsen Reported Ready To Act Against OPM Change.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—William S. Knudsen was reported today to be determined to quit as director of the office of production management if his hands were tied in the matter of priorities.

Friends of the big Danish-born production expert said he reached this decision as a result of house amendment to the pending Vinson bill — an amendment establishing a priorities division separate from the OPM, and accountable only to the armory munitions control board.

To avert such a development, the administration today began throwing its full weight behind a move to overturn the house vote and leave the OPM in full charge of priorities.

Report Fugitive Writes 'Words Which Will Make German High Command Sweat'; Information to Be Held Military Secret.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—A sudden intensification of German thrusts everywhere, beginning with Turkey, was predicted in certain London quarters today as a result of the Rudolf Hess episode.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Rudolf Hess is talking and writing "words which will make the German high command sweat," the British Broadcasting corporation declared today as it hit its stride in a propaganda campaign against Germany to capitalize on the flight of the No. 3 Nazi.

While the government-controlled BBC started on a schedule of 10 broadcasts a day to Germany on the Hess affair, a meeting between Adolf Hitler's deputy and Prime Minister Winston Churchill was projected—a move which Britons hoped would result in disclosure of vital German military secrets.

For the second successive day an authoritative British source stressed that Adolf Hitler's erstwhile deputy and minister without portfolio was writing and reading.

(A fair assumption was that he was preparing, in some form or other, a treatise on the reasons for his flight.) Hess, it also appeared, was listening to BBC's handling of his case, for an authoritative source said he spent some time at his secret sanctuary listening to radio news bulletins. Hess is fluent in English.

In the hospital to which he was moved from Glasgow, the fugitive Nazi was said to be in good spirits and recovering from the ankle fracture and slight arm abrasions he suffered when he bailed out over Scotland last Saturday night.

Hess was reported finding "life not too bad" on such English fare as good coffee, chicken, fish and eggs.

Details of arrangements for the proposed Churchill-Hess conference were as carefully guarded as the whereabouts of Britain's prize prisoner of war.

Observers expressed belief, however, that the dramatic meeting might provide food for the "further statement" concerning Hess' strange flight from the reich which Churchill yesterday promised the house of commons would be made "in the near future."

Hess, under treatment for the broken ankle he suffered when he parachuted down in Scotland Saturday night, has been questioned already by high British military officials.

The Daily Mail said he was reported to have "indicated his personal disgust with the Nazi party and its policy" as well as a growing tension between party leaders.

Whether Hess had given any information which might aid Britain's armed forces was not (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

SPOILS: Report Nazis, Reds Ready to Divide Middle East

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Informed quarters in Washington today believed that a "share-the-spoils" deal over the middle east already has been concluded between Germany and Soviet Russia.

Under the terms of this deal, these sources, who are in close touch with developments in that part of Europe, believe Soviet Russia will move into Iran and Germany will move into Syria, either through or around Turkey.

If Turkish resistance to the German plans brings that country into armed conflict with the Nazis, it is believed Turkey will be partitioned, with Soviet Russia taking a slice of the eastern part as far down the Black sea coast as Sam-sun in order to protect the Batum oil fields.

Germany's move into Syria will, these sources believe, be preparatory to a drive through that country and Palestine to attack the Suez canal from the European continent.

Fear of a German attack on the Ukraine and the Caucasus as well as hatred of the British is seen behind Stalin's latest deal with Hitler.

It is thought quite possible in Washington that knowledge of this deal may have been one of the factors which prompted Rudolf Hess to desert the Nazis and flee to Britain. Hess is known to have been bitterly anti-Communist. (Continued on Page 14, Col. 5)

APPROVED: French Agree to New Co-Operation With Nazis

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—The Vichy government is about to embark upon open war collaboration with Nazi Germany, a usually reliable source reported today.

(By Associated Press)

VICHY, France—The French government unanimously approved today terms negotiated between Adolf Hitler and French Vice Premier Jean Darlan, presenting the United States with what diplomatic circles called the accomplished fact of European co-operations designed to halt American entry into the war.

There still was no official indication of what the terms involved but a communique, issued after the cabinet meeting, said "the effects of these negotiations will be felt soon."

Admiral Darlan, who also is the Vichy regime's foreign minister, was disclosed this week to have met Hitler at an undisclosed time and place in the presence of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Diplomatic circles were agreed generally that the terms included not only economic but political collaboration as well between the French and their German conquerors.

Usually informed French sources also described the negotiations as going beyond the economic and into the political field. Belief was expressed, however, that they had not yet reached a final stage.

In the exchange, France was disclosed. Informal sources explained that any information concerning Germany's plans which might be gleaned from Adolf Hitler's erstwhile lieutenant and trusted confidante "obviously will be kept secret" for military reasons.

"It is believed it will be much more demoralizing to keep the Axis leaders guessing how much Hess might have told and how much of their future strategy and plans he might have revealed," one source declared.

Any information obtained from Hess, it was said, will be treated with the greatest skepticism until its authenticity can be tested.

"We want to be sure we haven't a 'Trojan Hess' on our hands," one informed source joked alluding to the famous "Trojan horse" trick by which the Greeks encompassed the fall of Troy.

Despite the mystery still veiling the reasons for Hess' fantastic flight, there was no doubt that the British were making every effort to exploit its propaganda value to the fullest extent.

The British Broadcasting corporation filled the air with news and speculation concerning the Nazi deputy fuhrer's arrival in England. Semi-official quarters expressed belief that as a result the British version of the story already was a well-known throughout Europe.

Broadcasts have been made in Czech, Spanish, Norwegian, French, German and other languages as well as English.

Assert Hess Sought To Promote Peace

BERLIN — (AP) — Rudolf Hess flew to Great Britain in the belief that he could pave the way for peace through influential British friends, including the Duke of Hamilton, and he expected them to enable him to fly back to Germany within two days. Nazis asserted today after studying papers left by the No. 3 Nazi.

Hess apparently hoped to persuade the Duke of Hamilton, on whose estate he landed by parachute, to lead a peace party in England, according to the claims in official sources, but he had "no knowledge" of the war plans of the Nazi high command.

Authorized sources put much emphasis on the past patriotism of Hess and the "tragedy" of his flight under the illusion that he could promote peace before the British empire was "destroyed."

"Hess was fixed by the messianic idea that by an audacious personal undertaking he could achieve co-operation between the two great Germanic nations—Germany and England," it was explained.

The Nazis said that Hess believed the Duke of Hamilton, whom he had known at the Berlin Olympic games in 1936, could be persuaded to aid the cause of peace and become the leader of a peace party in Britain. (The duke is now in the RAF.)

Informants emphasized that despite the "tragedy and unpleasantness" of the "Hess affair" it would not affect Germany's resolution and determination to "prosecute the war to victory." Likewise, they said, it would not affect German unity.

Cabinet Members Interview Hess

GLASGOW, Scotland — (AP) — At least one British cabinet minister has interviewed Rudolf Hess, No. 3 Nazi, at the castle overlooking the rolling Scottish highlands where he is held as a star prisoner of war under close guard. It was reported authoritatively today.

It is understood that Hess has talked a great deal to British officials sent here and to the special guards detailed to him, and has even revealed German war secrets.

Hess is in a small room of the castle to which he was sent from here. An army officer is in charge. There are many British patients in the castle which has been converted into a hospital some of them victims of German submarine or airplane attacks.

The Nazi leader enjoys special status. He is comfortable though he still suffers some pain in the ankle which he injured in parachuting from his plane near Glasgow.

neutrality act. A combat zone Red sea's approaches prevented use of the sea for a long time, but President Roosevelt cancelled this zone on April 11 after the British swept the Italians from the west coast of Africa.

President Roosevelt followed up his action in opening the Red sea by declaring Italy four days later that it was the law that the United States protect its merchantmen wherever they go, so long as they stay out of the neutrality act combat zones.

Thus a situation has developed, some officials said, where administration has committed itself to providing protection for American shipping in waters which Germany now formally includes in her intensified sea war area.

For the present, the situation was considered largely academic, because observers questioned Germany's ability to wage intensive sea war in the area without closer base facilities. An improvement in the Nazi position, however, could make the problem very real overnight, it was pointed out.

There was speculation in some quarters whether Germany's action might mean that American supplies in the British army of the Nile. Informed circles were silent on this but said they believed that the United States would ignore the Nazi warning and rush plans for speeding shipments via the Red sea route.

Leaders opposing the measure did not appear optimistic over their chances at this time of winning a flat statutory prohibition against use of the navy to safeguard British aid shipments.

Hitler Warns Ships In Red Sea Zone

BERLIN — (AP) — Adolf Hitler, plunging ahead with his military campaign while the world puzzled over the flight of his right-hand man, Rudolf Hess, to Scotland, declared today that ships risking the Red Sea route to Suez would expose themselves to destruction.

The waters he placed in the Nazi war action area included the northern third of the Red Sea which President Roosevelt recently declared open to American ships. The warning, seen here as obviously directed at the United States, said the development of the war in the eastern Mediterranean made it necessary to declare the northern Red Sea an operations zone. It added that "war actions of German armed forces" could be expected there and that every ship traveling in the area "exposes itself to destruction by mines or other weapons of war."

(Informal circles in Washington said last night the German action had been anticipated and was not expected to change the United States' plans for getting supplies through the sea to Suez.)

(President Roosevelt's announcement April 11 that he had opened the Red Sea to United States ships said that although under the neutrality act they could not carry war material to belligerents, American ships could make deliveries to Egypt as a neutral.)

Intervenes Twice To Aid Pickets At White House

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Soldiers, sailors and marines who for two nights have attempted to break up the American peace mobilization's picket line in front of the White House were warned today that "the White House must be respected."

Lieut. Col. Horace B. Smith, White House military aide, personally intervened twice last night on behalf of the pickets when they were threatened by attacks from groups of servicemen.

The pickets, have been marching since Friday afternoon in what they describe as a "perpetual peace vigil." They protested to Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, presidential secretary, yesterday against an attack Monday night by soldiers, sailors and marines, and Watson promised adequate protection.

Smith, who said he had been assigned to protect the pickets, apparently was Watson's answer.

HITS UNFITNESS IN REGISTRANTS

Intelligence Officer Says Physiques Slow Work.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Capt. Alfred G. Karger, intelligence and public relations officer at Fort Hayes, said last night that "physical unfitness" had retarded the speed of assembling the expanded army for training.

"Of the 27,920 men examined in the Ohio area, 41,72 per cent were rejected by local boards, according to state selective service headquarters," he said.

Captain Karger added that of the remaining 56,28 per cent, 13 per cent were rejected at army reception centers.

mission which under Ohio law must reapportion the state every ten years. Sweeney said he and Ferguson would be glad to confer with Gov. Bricker on any points to which he objected.

They pointed out, however, that the plan had been drawn up by George Neffner, Republican, elections expert in the secretary of state's office.

However, the reapportionment must be completed by the end of the month.

Under the new set-up the proposed 29th-31st district would have one senator for each biennium during the next decade. At present it has two serving the fifth biennium, due to the population of the district. Where Lorain county is now the most populous in the 27th-29th district, that honor would go to Richland in the 29th-31st.

Democratic leaders in Columbus denied the plan was a Democratic gerrymander. They said that it would make the Democratic strongholds stronger, but would do the same for districts that are dominantly Republican.

Under the new set-up, Lorain and Medina counties, now in the 27th-29th district, would become part of the 27th-28th.

Both the senators now representing the 27th-29th come from Lorain county. They are P. H. Rogers Grafton, and Joseph Jameson, Lorain, both Republicans.

The last Democratic senator from the 27th-29th district was William F. Hurley, also Lorain. He was preceded by Philip Wolfe, Mansfield, Republican.

HOG MART UP

25-Cent Increase In Prices Here; New High In Chicago.

Hog prices went up 25 cents per hundred in Mansfield today and reached a two-year high of $9.10 per hundred on the Chicago market in a sudden price spurt.

Top price in Mansfield was $8.50 for hogs in the 180-230 pound class. Top yesterday was $8.25.

Livestock experts attributed the price jump to news that the house of representatives had approved loans on farm commodities at a rate of 85 per cent of parity, an Associated Press dispatch said.

It was predicted that the government might act to support a $10 hog market in Chicago to compensate farmers for an anticipated gain in feeding costs if the new parity level becomes law.

The 1941 graduating class will include 133 boys and 149 girls. It will be considerably smaller than the 1940 class.

Alvin H. Fankhauser, member of the Mansfield board of education, had been chosen today to present the diplomas to the graduates as they file past the speaker's stand.

PICK SITE FOR ASHLAND'S NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY

Trustees Choose Portion of Land Formerly Owned By Pioneer Educator.

ASHLAND—A part of the original Lorin Andrews farm has been selected as the site for the new library building which will be erected as soon as "circumstances permit." Andrews was a pioneer educator of prominence and the library board members are happy that the farm belonging to this man of history is located so that it is a suitable site for the public library.

The plot lies between the present residence of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman on Claremont avenue, approximately 200 feet south of Town creek. A frontage on Claremont avenue is 140 feet wide and the lot is 214 feet deep, a strip running west to Quarry street making the area one half acre.

The library has been located in the old Opera House building since 1889 and although the quarters were enlarged in 1914 the trustees state the rooms are very overcrowded. The organization of the Ashland library was effected in 1893 and has grown steadily in popularity and usefulness. The county circulation has increased until in the month of April 4,000 volumes were circulated through the 22 stations.

The library board consists of Mrs. H. E. Andrews, chairman, E. H. Taylor, W. A. Duff, Mrs. William B. Kellogg, J. E. Bohn, Dr. Louis E. Pete, Charles C. Spies and Robert Kopp.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1941

Haile Selassie is back on his throne—and the crown is much more becoming than the derby.

Anyhow, that contemplation of "a more abundant life" was pleasant—while the opiate lasted.

Here's a thought, as presented by Dr. John W. Holland in the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "If you have some money, some work, and somebody who cares, envy no one."

Considering Selectee Age Range

THERE has been considerable discussion, during recent weeks, about the advisability of changing the selective service law from the present 21 to 35 age range—or at least deferring the call of older registrants.

Among the interesting proposals is that of reducing the minimum age from 21 to 18 or 17, and stopping at 30 instead of 35.

Opinions on this subject are based largely on different views as to the purpose, and probable permanency, of the selective service system, which is now being accepted as a necessary part of the national defense program and quite generally regarded as temporary.

If it is true, as seems to be indicated by the high percentage of registrants who fail to meet physical requirements, that American youths are lacking in physical training and medical and dental attention, there may be an advantage in establishing a permanent program designed to provide a year's training and disciplinary period fitted to peace-time needs as well as to preparations for national defense.

Disturbing as the thought may be, it is unlikely that recurrent threats of war will be removed within the present, or next several generations, and readiness to meet those threats will go far toward the preservation of peace for the Americas.

The idea of lowering the age for registration in selective service is based on the fact that 17 and 18 are ages at which boys complete their high school course and that the break of a year's training at this point might be an advantage rather than a detriment, either in advance of going to college or entering into employment.

If this were decided upon as regular procedure a few years of operation would eliminate the present emergency requirement for a broad age range of registrants and would make a year's training under government auspices available to all young men.

Recognition for New Citizens

NEXT SUNDAY has been nationally designated as New Citizens' day and will be observed with special ceremonies and educational programs in a number of cities.

This recognition is intended for native young people who attained voting age within the past year as well as foreign-born men and women who have become naturalized during the year.

At a time when millions of people in Europe have been temporarily deprived of the rights and privileges of citizenship it is especially appropriate to impress upon American young people and naturalized citizens the advantages they are being permitted to enjoy, and the freedom they are accorded, under our form of government.

Individual liberties and protection of minorities have been taken for granted to such an extent in this country that it may be well for older persons to also become better acquainted with some of the fundamentals of American government, so as to be able, if occasion arises, to correct the wrong ideas of friends or acquaintances who have been misled into thinking that some form of totalitarianism is preferable to democracy.

While the pattern of democracy is constantly changing to meet new conditions, the fundamental principles of government "of the people, for the people and by the people" have continued from generation to generation and at this crucial period in world history it is important that all citizens know something about their country's historical background, present purposes and future aspirations.

Quietness Increases Efficiency

WITH the first seven days of June designated as Noise Abatement week, it is interesting to note that some attention is being given this sadly neglected subject.

According to F. Edgar McGee, of Buffalo, head of the national quietness committee, if the average office is made as quiet as the average home it will increase the efficiency of workers from 12 to 15 per cent.

Appreciation of quiet is seen in efforts to reduce the noise of typewriters and other items of office equipment, but no way has yet been found to curb the annoyance of ever-loud or high-pitched voices carrying into the surrounding area, or the nuisance of the thoughtless whistler, hummer or pencil drummer who inflicts himself upon practically every organization.

Unnecessary outside noises, such as horn-honking, are the ones with which ordinances in a number of cities are chiefly concerned and which are most likely to be materially reduced by education and public co-operation. The habitual horn-honker can probably be induced, in time, to avoid this revealing indication of sub-normality.

Business Men Size Up Graduates

A DINNER attended by the members of a high school graduating class and business men of the community who were their prospective employers was an interesting experiment tried recently in the middle west. The students were from the business education department of the school.

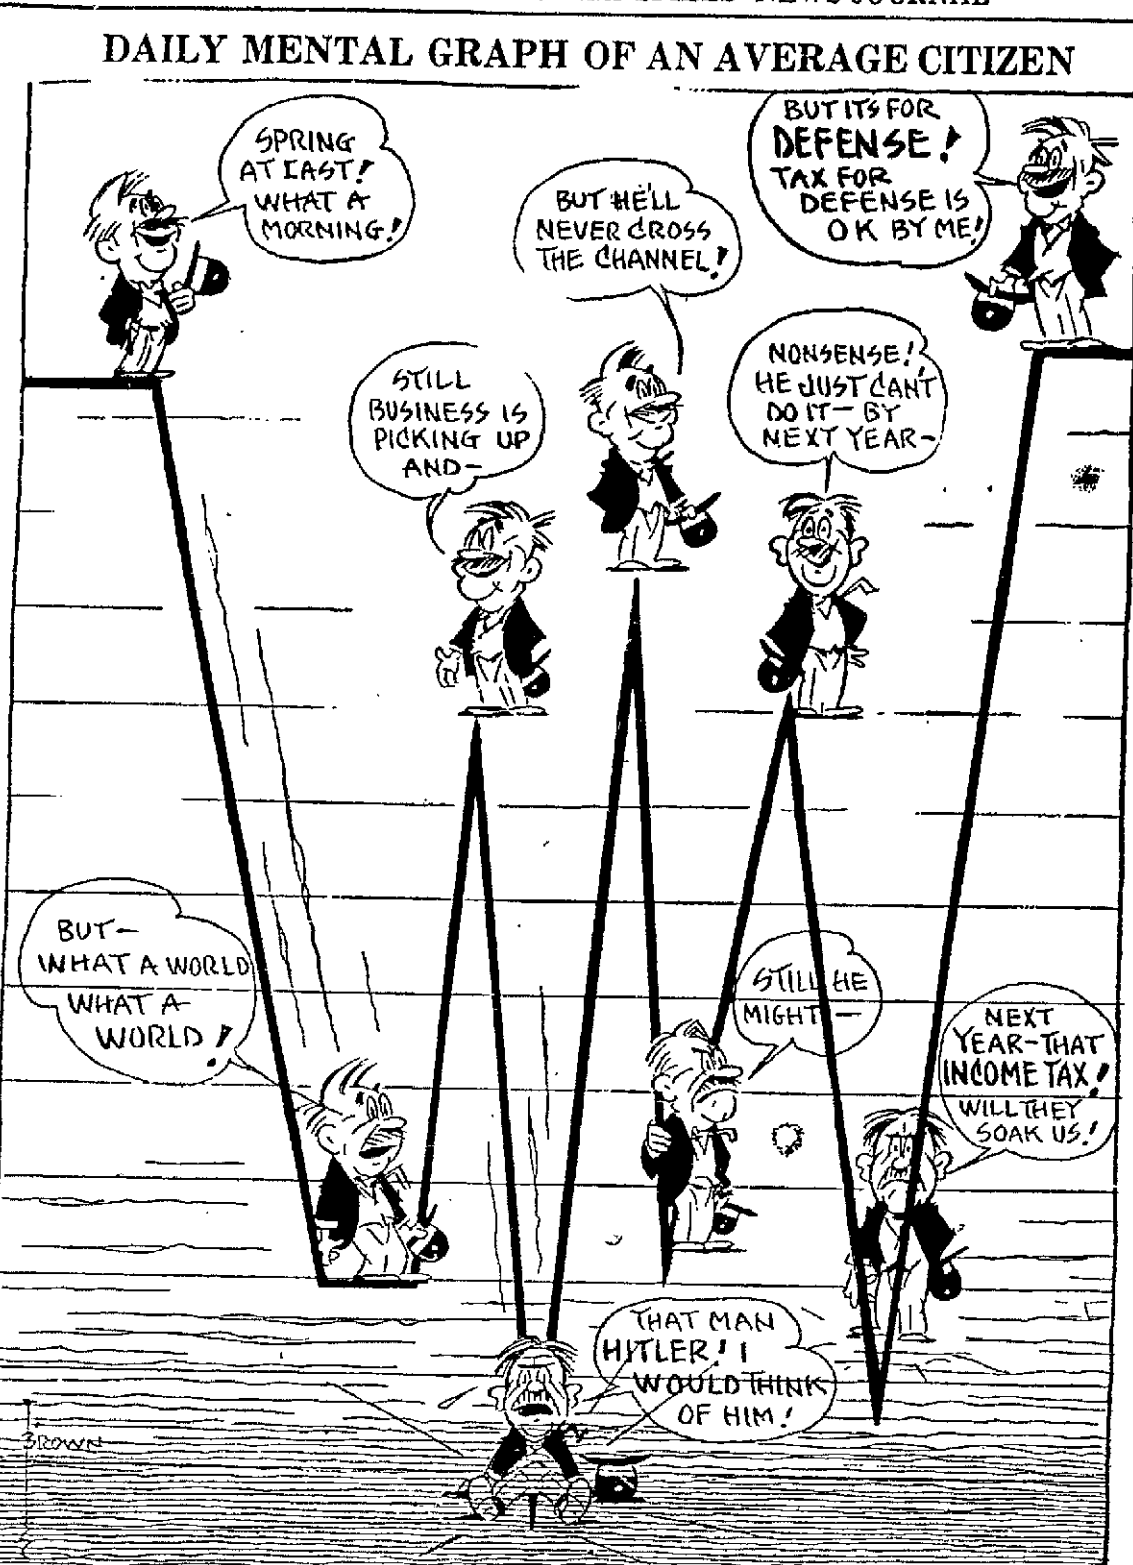

After the dinner, which was served in the school cafeteria, the head of the department put the seniors through their paces, to show their clerical ability, their handling of office machinery, and so on. The guest-employers were then given an opportunity to judge for themselves, testing pupils' competence in taking dictation, typing and various other office skills.

Incidentally, of course, employers must have learned a good deal about the character, attitude and appearance of those young people.

Now that scientists have revealed the high content of pep vitamins in grass, the Detroit News sees an explanation of "the cow jumped over the moon" incident.

Unless shipments to Britain are protected it appears that seven billion dollars will be sunk in more ways than one.

It seems to be Hitler's idea that if the meek are to inherit the earth they'll have to fight for it.

Parks Ready for Biggest Season

WASHINGTON — The national park people have taken a look at the barometer and are preparing for the biggest tourist travel ever known in the parks.

The barometer is the Lincoln Memorial here in Washington, for it records pretty closely the trend of travel all over the country. The way the turnstile clicked there in April indicates that America is on the go as never before. In that one month, more than 350,000 persons visited the memorial, climbed the broad steps where Marion Anderson sang her now historic concert and gazed up at the towering statue of Lincoln.

That is 80,000 more persons than ever visited the memorial in any one month and almost a fourth as many as visited it during the record year of 1940.

Unless the pattern falls apart, that means that the almost 17,000,000 persons who visited the national parks and monuments in the country last year will be far outstripped by the vacation hordes that pour into them this year.

There is the fishing in Olympic (Washington), Crater Lake (Oregon), Lassen (California), and others. There are the six-day hikes and pack trips from Yosemite into the high Sierras. There is mountain climbing in Mount Ranier National Park and in Glacier in northern Montana.

There is the breath-taking scenery of Zion and Bryce Canyons in Utah and of the Grand Canyon in Arizona. There is the historical interest in the cliff dwellings in Mesa Verde in Colorado. There is the chilling thrill of the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico, where modern elevators drop you 750 feet in a twinkling and where if you arrive at the right time of year, you can watch the countless bats fly out for their nightly foraging.

Even if it's heat you want, the park service can supply it—in degrees you'll never forget in Death Valley in California.

There are very few states that don't have either parks or national monuments. There is hardly anything that the vacationist could demand that these government owned and supervised spots don't offer.

A newcomer in the park lists and one for which park officials here have high hopes is Isle Royale, 200 square miles of richly forested island in northern Lake Superior. Another island is Acadia off the coast of Maine. Close to 400,000 persons visited it last year. A third island tourist attraction is Hawaii, which attracted 300,000 last year.

Many Monuments.

THERE are very few states that don't have either parks or national monuments. There is hardly anything that the vacationist could demand that these government owned and supervised spots don't offer.

Listen World! Toughen Up, Americal

WHY are the Germans winning? Perhaps you think they are winning because of their mechanized units. In which case, guess again.

They are winning because of the stamina and discipline which have been pounded into them from birth and which, today, know no faltering or fear in face of fear.

This will not be a pleasant statement for most Americans to follow. We do not like to concede virtues to a rival nation. Still less do we like to admit that any alien country may have it all over our American way of life in any respect. But the simple truth is that the Germans have prepared themselves for this job of world revolution—and we Americans haven't. And we'd better get wise to ourselves, or else.

Which statement is based on brass-tack statistics . . . and the statement of a man who knows as much about the human body as any medic on earth. Dr. Victor G. Heiser. Remember, he wrote "An American Doctor's Odyssey" and stirred up a pot that's still boiling? Now he has turned on the American public and is giving it a dose of penetrating truth, which Heaven knows we need!

For there's no use kidding ourselves. Whether Hitler ever invades these shores or not, we are caught, inevitably, in those vital changes which are sweeping the earth and of which he is only the symbol.

America's destiny calls for a happier, healthier private life. For a wiser, kinder industrial life . . . for a cleaner, stronger public life.

AND WE AREN'T GOING TO WIN THESE THINGS BY LAWS OR BULLETS . . . OR EMILIED REGIMENTS. WE'RE GOING TO WIN THEM BY SANER MINDS AND SOUNDER BODIES. BY INDIVIDUAL DISCIPLINE WHICH CAN WITHSTAND THE CHEAP JUVENILE TEMPTATIONS TO WHICH WE HAVE HITHERTO SUCCEDED.

Dr. Heiser tells the story of that struggle in his book "Toughen Up, Americal," recently released by Whittlesley House. He tells us, and frankly, the unpalatable truth—namely, that we Americans have become so soft and self-indulgent that we couldn't last through the first round if the seasoned scrappers of Europe took a swing at us. He intimates also that our cherished notion of our invincible gumption is just so much horse-

War Risk Insurance Being Paid To Axis Companies On U.S. Ships

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It is hard to believe, but the government of the United States actually is paying war risk insurance to the Japanese for helping to insure the SS. America, pride of the U. S. merchant marine.

This is just part of the revelations over re-insurance which are breaking this week at the justice department. These probes also show that when a vessel is insured, Axis insurance companies get all the data regarding its cargo, time of departure, destination, and the interior plan of the ship.

Thus, despite all the censorship of Secretary of the Navy Knox, Germany has had an easy means of knowing all about every ship that leaves the United States.

This is accomplished when American insurance companies, because of the heavy risk involved in insuring a cargo in wartime, re-insure with various foreign companies. In other words, they sell part of the policy abroad, thus distribute the risk. That is how Japan makes a lush profit on insuring American vessels, ever vessels owned by the U. S. A.

Last year congress passed a law providing war risk insurance for U. S. shipping, but the Maritime Commission, for reasons best known to itself, has declined to take advantage of the law. Commission members state quite frankly that they wanted to throw the business to private insurance concerns—as long as private insurance was available.

Begging for Insurance.

AS a result, here is what happens when the SS America or some other vessel seeks insurance for a voyage. The operators of

The America will get a certain amount of insurance at the rate of 75c per $100, but not enough properly to insure the cargo. Then they write to Bryant Ogden of the insurance bureau of the Maritime Commission asking for government insurance.

Mr. Ogden, under the law, is supposed to grant government insurance when private insurance is not available. But he writes back to say that other private insurance is available at a higher price. So the SS. America finally gets its insurance for $1.50 per $100—but not all of it. When it can get no more at this price it again writes to Mr. Ogden, who again asks if the private insurance field is exhausted.

So this time the SS. America gets more private insurance at the exorbitant price of $5 per $100. You can always get private insurance if you are willing to pay a steep enough price. And Mr. Ogden or the Maritime Commission, or both, seem to want no government competition with the insurance companies.

Insurance Pool.

THEN when the SS. America is fully insured with private companies, these companies turn around and re-insure with a pool, including the Tokyo Fire and Marine Insurance company, the Meiji Insurance company of Tokyo, Generale di Trieste (an Italian firm) and five German companies.

This insurance pool includes Scandia of Copenhagen, a country which has been taken over by Hitler; Cristiana General of Norway, also Nazi occupied; and Le General of Paris, also in the hands of the Nazis.

When a ship is insured, information regarding its cargo, destination, etc., is passed around among the insurance companies which participate. Thus the Nazis probably have known—through reinsurance companies—all about every vessel sailing.

Note—In the case of the SS. America, the United States government owns a heavy mortgage and control of the vessel, also pays it a heavy subsidy. Yet the Maritime Commission shuns the insurance fund voted by congress and lets part of the profits—as well as the confidential information—go to Axis insurance companies.

Summer Welles' Humor.

TALL, dignified Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, has the erect bearing of a guardsman, sometimes auster people by his austere manner. Underneath, however, he is anything but austere. He has a rich sense of humor. Here is the latest story he tells on himself.

After a late banquet in the Willard hotel, Welles came down in the same elevator with two women who were slightly intoxicated. "Say," said one of them in a highly audible whisper, "look who we have with us in the elevator—Sumner Welles!"

"What! That old stick-in-the-

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The first of the mackerel have shown up in local waters, and I can hear sighs from 100,000 fishermen in the metropolitan area being wafled gently and gracefully on the coastal breezes. When the mackerel are running New York isn't quite its natural self. There is something to the behavior of the "mottle backs" that excites most salt-water fishermen. As a result, captains of fishing sloops up and down the coast are ready for all comers.

The North Star, Pioneer II, Claire, Ohlay, Fidus, Tambou II, Usona, Klondyke, Moccasin are manned with crew, tackle and bait. You don't have to have a rod, hook, line, sinker, or anything to enjoy fishing around here. The captain of the sloop provides all for a small fee.

The Whitby II has just inaugurated its fishing season. If you ride the Whitby II, you will go after cod and black fish. She leaves every day and Sunday from pier 7, Sheepshead Bay. A couple of bucks pays for everything, and you keep all the fish you catch.

CAPTAIN HARRY BERLIN of the Claire, an old hand at piloting fishermen to the fishing grounds, tells me two of his guests mopped up with a catch of more than 400 flounders in a single day. They were running up to two pounds, which is nice pan size. Pollock also are appearing in satisfying numbers off the Point-the Point being Montauk point.

If you stand in West street on the Hudson in the neighborhood of the 80's you can see traps in the river, set far out beyond the channel bed. Traps take mackerel as well as hook and line. They are large cone-shaped nets staked out from the Jersey side. They are plainly marked so as not to interfere with shipping.

LIKE daily baseball boxscores and flying weather reports, the condition of the water and the high tide table are so important to the public that daily reports are made by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and are published in all metropolitan newspapers. In high tide, today at Sandy Hook, first tide occurred at 10:45 a. m. and 10:45 p. m. . . . At Oyster Bay it was 1:29 a. m. and 2:01 p. m. . . . At Montauk point it was 11:25 a. m. and 11:31 p. m. . . .

Holidays and Sundays are great "white" days in this coastal region. The sloops accommodate between 50 and 200 fishermen. You cast off generally at dawn. In a couple of hours you reach the fishing grounds. . . . From then on through the day the rails are lined with fishermen, elbow to elbow. . . . There is hilarity and also a generous amount of seasickness. When the weather is rough the "casualties" sometimes run as high as 50 per cent. But it's a great pastime and a great summer industry—if you like that kind of fishing and the smell of salt water.

Serene Old Age

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I DROVE up through a fertile, secluded valley and found an old couple working in their garden along the roadside. The spade the old man used was long and shiny. A well-housed wheelbarrow stood near with a load of stable manure. As he spaded once across, his thin, stooped old "frau" in a sunbonnet used the broad, tined fork to put in a generous portion following the deep moist furrow he had made.

They spoke Pennsylvania Dutch together, with the accent that I knew. It made me homesick, for it was like a message from my youth. They talked of how to plant the garden. The old foot paths were there, and along the side in a narrow bed, ditty, camomile, sage, yarrow and dark green tansy tea were growing.

"You're doing team work," I said.

They both smiled, which brought out the deeper wrinkles of their faces. "Katie and I have been in double harness for nigh 50 years," he said. "We'll never work that long in the fields again—but it seems so short a time since we set up housekeeping—and the years our children were young and small seem just like yesterday."

"Your children are grown?"

"They exchanged an amused look. "The oldest is 45 and the youngest—why she must be 34!"

"And she's still our baby," commented the old lady a bit plaintively, yet almost with the air of a younger mother. . . . "even though she has three children of her own."

These folks were old, yet their memories and their children kept

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"Of course I will manage that," I told Nancy Carew as I raised my voice slightly and called "Mary, dear, come back now, please."

"I shall be glad to make that change," I said, looking attentively at Nancy Carew, but making my voice loud enough so that Mary would be sure to hear what I was saying. "And I think it will add, not only to the effectiveness of your part, but to the whole scene."

"Thank you," she said, with as much fervor in her voice as if the colloquy to which I had referred had been a genuine one. "And I hope you know that I would not have asked the change for my own part if I had not been convinced that it would be better for the scene as a whole."

"Of course I know that," I told her with emphasis. "And now I really must run along with Mary. You will be at the party when I come back, I hope."

Mary Is Appeared.

"If for no other reason," she said with a smile that accentuated the complimentary speech. Then she turned the smile on Mary, whose eyes I saw with relief, had lost their stoniness, as the result of our carefully staged explanation of Nancy Carew's reason for asking to speak to me alone.

"Sorry, Mary, I overstepped my time," she said, "but I won't keep you longer."

"If Auntie Madge doesn't care, it makes no never mind to me," Mary answered succinctly, then added seriously: "You know I am at your command, always."

Kobacker's Beauty Salon

Advises Girl
To Invite Boy
Into Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

You've helped so many people with their problems that I'm sure you can help me too.

When my boy friend and I go to the movies, it doesn't take up the entire evening, so we sit in his car and talk for an hour or more. I'm wondering if it is right to do that, or would it be better to invite him into the house for a while?

Jill.

Sitting in your boy friend's car for a visit usually gives the neighborhood gossips something to wag their tongues over. If you're superior to this line of chatter, it's all right to visit in his car. But if you're an observer of the conventions, better invite the young man into the house.

Must Choose Between Son and Husband.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband died when we were married only three years, and left me with a baby boy. I put the child in a good home and went to work. I became a nurse and, while on a case, met a man whom I later married. As my work kept me away a good deal, I left my son in the home but paid extra so he could have special privileges. I had hoped that my husband would learn to love my son, but just the opposite happened.

Then my husband became ill and lost his job and now I have to support him. Don't you think his attitude in insisting that I keep my son away from me is both wrong and selfish? I am the one who maintains our home, and think my son is entitled to a place in it. But every time I talk about it, he gets angry and sulks for several days. What would you do in my place?

Unhappy.

If I were in your place, my dear, I should never have allowed this situation to get out of hand, as you have done. I should have taken my son from the home the moment it was financially possible for me to do so. If the boy's stepfather had acted like the stepfathers of the old-fashioned fairy tales, I should have insisted upon a different course of conduct or his taking a vacation until he changed his mind.

Boys should know their mothers, and I'd lose no time in taking the youngster from the home, whether the stepfather liked it or not.

WHEN YOUR contract seems to be doomed, it will pay you to stop and see if you can't figure out some arrangement of the hidden cards which might offer you a possible chance. If there is just some one combination which would work, your job is to play as if that exact situation exists. Of course, if it doesn't, then you are beaten. But you would be beaten anyway, in that event, and you at least have the satisfaction of having preserved what slight chance for you still existed, instead of having given up without a try.

Emil Ahlert, rated by many as Pittsburgh's outstanding player, had a neat assignment to carry out on this duplicate deal, on which he was the only successful grand slammer. When West opened the heart 3 and he saw the dummy, it was clear that he had no simple play to avoid a spade loser, so he figured out a complex one, a nice squeeze which could work only if the opponent guarding the second diamond also had five spades. This could be either West with the diamond K-J, and five spades, or East with the same holding, as he built up the play.

To do it, he had to avoid the mistake of those declarers who, after taking out the few hostile clubs, immediately played out their three hearts. He saved one, so the squeezing lead could come from his own hand, which was vitally necessary.

He won the heart with his K, took two high clubs, led the diamond Q, covered by East, and overtook with the A, then took four more clubs, discarding the diamond 5 and spade 3. Came next the heart Q and then the heart 7 to the A—the squeeze card. East had to hold three spades to protect the third one in dummy, so he was obliged to discard the dia-

CHAPTER XVII

"I think—think you're very—wonderful, Bill," Raye said, tremulously.

He looked determinedly away from her. He reached shaking fingers into his shirt pocket, drew out a cigarette and lit it.

"We're going to have in that boat out there—when you've finished your lunch," he told her firmly.

She turned on him angrily.

"You know how to plan everything, don't you?" she shot out. "Perhaps I don't care to ride in boats—perhaps I..."

But Bill's strong strides had carried him the few feet to where the boat was moored. He began untying the rope fastened to a stake in the ground.

Raye got slowly to her feet and walked to the water's edge. Her anger surprisingly had vanished and in her heart was a new lilt that she did not want to lose. She realized in astonishment that she actually longed to do whatever would please Bill Anderson. He was a man in a million! And he had told her that he loved her—he had just told her that for the second time. The first time she had heard it from his lips was that stormy night in his gas-station office—and her heart had belonged forever, she thought then to Hal Bedford.

But now she had come to her senses. She saw that she was close to loving Bill Anderson in a constant way over which she had no control.

What this state of affairs would lead up to, she did not stop to analyze. Her own impulse now was to make Bill continue talking about his strange theory of love.

Her old crowd hadn't done so much fussing about it. If couples were in love, they married—first and seriously considered it afterward—perhaps in the divorce court. There was little of that "until death do us part" principle, which undoubtedly was firmly fixed in Bill Anderson's mind.

Raye hadn't given it much thought before, either, but now she suddenly concluded that she wanted her marriage to stick in exactly that way. When she considered it, she knew that divorce hadn't made many of the girls she knew very happy.

But now Bill must say something more about love—their love. It couldn't be left in this undecisive way when she had just discovered there was something bigger in the world than money could buy.

"I take it all back, Bill," she told him contritely. "I adore boats—rides—on a grand old Flat-bottomed boat is so—so safe."

Even to herself it sounded inane, but she felt nervous chatty.

"You can swim can't you?" he asked tossing away his cigarette. Then he guided her by the arm to a seat in the stern.

"Yes of course—only there's too much eelgrass in this lake for that."

He nodded vaguely, sat down and took up the oars.

He began rowing easily, his short-sleeved open-collared sport shirt exposing the magnificent play of muscles on his tanned chest and arms.

The fascinated Raye remarked:

Don't blame your child if it looks like just a nasty habit, but it may mean that ugly, crawling roundworms are starting trouble inside the child right now. Other warning signs are: "icky" appetite, fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itching seat.

"You must have been quite an athlete in college."

"Nothing startling. I did my share in track—was captain of the football team for a couple of years. It was good sport."

"Marvelous! I wish I'd known you then."

"Too bad you know me now—you should say I'm sorry I lost my head, Raye. I didn't mean to let you know how I felt—even that night in my office. It had to pop out, I guess. I've no right to expect you'll ever notice a poor prospect like me."

"But you're not, Bill! You're some one—some one I could care a great deal about."

It came from her bravely sincere. She had entirely forgotten that this was the man she had so recently suspected of being involved in what might easily have been murder.

He was gazing over her head as if he had not heard her, but she gathered that he was pondering her remark, and she waited.

The silence was broken now by the gentle, rhythmic splash of the oars going in and out of the water, by the occasional call of a bird and by an airplane flying so high it was a mere silver streak in the clear blue sky.

Finally he said in a thick voice: "I've no business allowing it—you mustn't care Raye. I'm not one of those fellows bound to inherit a fortune. I'll have to make my own way. It will be a long hard pull—perhaps for years. You know dozens of rich men. Your best bet is to select the most eligible one, marry him—not let an ineligible like me stand in your way."

"Bill! How blind you are! Can't you realize if I—if I really loved a man?"

"I know how it is—you think you'd be happy. But you're romantic, Raye—too romantic for your own good."

She started as if he had struck her like that about Hal!

She took a deep breath and insisted gently, "Doesn't romance make the world go round?"

"Better cut it out, dear—be sensible like me."

He laughed shortly then tightened his lips as if he had seen them into submission.

He saw the lissom grace of her that sweet hollow in her throat made for kisses and it took all the will power he possessed to prevent himself from going overboard about her again.

Her dreary blue eyes were troubled now. She watched her hand trailing lightly on the surface of the blue water, wondering what more she could say to convince him that he was entirely wrong. The way she was feeling now, she'd be willing to wait years on end for him.

She lifted her hand and casually glanced shoreward.

"Oh dear! Look at those men getting out of that car! I hope they don't steal your lunch basket, Bill. I left my handbag on shore, too. There's nothing much in it—but I hate to lose it."

Bill immediately stopped rowing and squinted back over his shoulder.

"They look harmless enough," he said reassuringly. "Probably a couple of fishermen. Joe Landers says there are bass in this lake—he has the dickens of a time keeping people off the premises. He's posted the whole farm, but nobody pays any attention to the signs."

"It's strange that people insist upon taking what doesn't belong to them, isn't it?" she remarked intently.

Then she wondered at Bill's swift glance at her, at the tight look on his face and his sudden frown.

She didn't know why she should connect his sudden reaction to her quite ordinary remark with something he was attempting to conceal. It filled her with real concern.

Then, "Hello hello there!" came from the shore.

"Hello!" shouted back Bill, pleasantly enough.

"That Miss Stone with you?" Under his breath, Bill muttered. "What the dickens!"

"Yes, Miss Stone's here. What do you want?" he called out. "I'm scared, Bill!" Raye was seized with violent trembling. "Who—who are they?"

"What's your interest in Miss Stone?" yelled Bill. "We're detectives—have to question Miss Stone."

"Bill—oh, Bill—what shall I do?" came from the frightened Raye, her face as white as the lace collar below it.

"It's nothing, dear—we'll soon settle them. Keep your nerve," Bill told her quickly. "We'd better go back and talk to them."

"Yes, I suppose so," came shakily from Raye.

"We'll be right in," Bill assured.

REX
HESS

Tonight's the night, and under the Fairground lights we'll see that sight we've been waiting for, Manager Alex Clowson's revamped Mansfield Braves tangle with the once powerful Pandas of Lima in the Ohio State league lid-fighter.

Word comes from Lima that the Pandas are not the mighty aggregation of a year ago, but whether they still pack a punch good enough for the Ohio State circuit, or will just be punchy from taking it is something we'll discover in time.

The Braves have lost some power in the outfield, but appear to have made that up in the infield and behind the bat, while defensive improvement appears certain in that all-important line from the catcher's box, through the mound and the keystone combination.

Some of the scribes around the circuit have made an honest effort to do the coming race, and have lined up behind Tiffin and Findlay as favorites because of the veterans those clubs have back.

Mansfield also has its veterans, at first and third, and Tim Mangan behind the plate, and most important of all on the hurling staff where Paterson, Byers and Drewke form a seasoned trio that should be hard to beat.

So many boys have come and gone
Through the training season,
That experts pick the teams they're on
Without rhyme or reason.

Yep, that's the score when it comes to dishing the league race at this early date. So many hundred boys have tried out with six loop clubs that it's hard to say just what has happened to team lineups during the shuffle.

Stronger or weaker, that's the question. But Mansfield must have strengthened a little when it was forced to release Catcher Don Wentz and Pitcher Rex Benton of last year's team, to make room for some of the promising youngsters still with the club.

One thing I think you'll see on that Mansfield ball club this summer is an improved team spirit. Fans and players alike have taken to Alex Clowson, new boss of the Braves, because of his likeable personality off the field, and the way he handles the club on the diamond.

He's indicated that a word of encouragement, instead of a ride on the carpet, will follow any unfortunate bobble on the field, and that, I should think, is the right way to handle boys of the age of those performing in this Ohio State league.

We'll be better, don't you fear it,
Now we've got that old team spirit.

Feller Reaches Stardom

World Had Heard He Was Good, Writer Admits It.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
BOB FELLER came to the Cleveland Indians six years ago labeled a marvel. He was 16 years old and fresh off a farm at Van Meter, Ia.

Instead of undergoing a seasoning process in the minors like, say Lefty Grove, who spent five years at Baltimore, Feller's first step in organized baseball was in the arena of the American league.

Because of this it took a little time for this big, earnest boy to absorb the polish expected of a major league pitcher. He had an amazing fast ball, a minimum of control and only a vague idea that games could be won with less than a dozen or 15 strikeouts.

He still is learning, but there no longer is the faintest doubt that he is the best pitcher in the major leagues. . . . The only question is that ultimate goal he will reach—whether some day he may be considered the greatest of all time.

He led the Indians yesterday to a 2-1 10-inning decision over the New York Yankees. It was his sixth victory against two defeats this year and evened his all-time record against the Yanks at 11 won and the same number lost.

Feller allowed just six hits and fanned nine. Five of his first six strikeouts victims were called out on curve balls, which Bob couldn't throw when he came to Cleveland but now can break with the best in his league. He also showed great courage in getting out of jams.

The Indians scored off Marius Russo in the second inning, but an unearned run by the Yanks in the sixth tied the score. Feller just clamped down till Lou Boudreau hit a homer in the tenth to win. Mel Harder goes to the mound as the Indians seek their second straight over the Yanks today.

The Chicago White Sox nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, and took over second place behind the Indians. John Rigney held Boston to four hits, two of them home runs by Jim Foss and Ted Williams.

The Washington Senators squeezed past the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, by rallying for all their runs in the fifth and sixth innings, knocking Buck Newsom out of the box on the way. Young Sid Hudson allowed only three hits, but walks and errors helped Detroit.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Favorite topic of conversation when American and National leaguers meet is whether Del Baker or Charlie Dressen is the best signal-snatcher. . . . Looks like a field of not more than 160 for the National Open next month. . . . Chicago scribes are hinting that Lou Novikoff and his bale of press clippings are to be shipped back to Los Angeles.

IS THIS A RECORD?
U. of North Carolina tennis players believe they hold a national collegiate record—51 consecutive wins since their last defeat in May, 1938. . . . Also, their 97 per cent 14-year record under Coach John Kenfield—203 victories, six defeats and two ties.

COME AND GET IT.

League Lifts Seasonal Lid

Lima Pandas Open at Mansfield Tonight.

COLUMBUS — (AP)—Ohio State league baseball fans pry the lid off the 1941 season tonight in three cities.

The opening schedule of the six-club, Class D circuit finds Lima at Mansfield, Fostoria at Findlay and Fremont at Tiffin.

All the teams except Findlay enter the new campaign with new managers. The Oilers again have the veteran Grover Hartley at the helm.

Lima's champion Pandas, who won the 1940 title with 13 games to spare, have a new skipper in Otis Brannan. Other newcomers among the managers are Alex Clowson of Mansfield, Len Ellison at Fostoria and Charles Le Crone at Tiffin.

At Fremont, Chappie Geygan of Columbus, former Boston Red Sox infielder, returns as pilot after a season's absence. He managed the Green Sox in 1938 and 1939 after tours with other clubs in the league.

Findlay and Tiffin appear best equipped for the season with several of last year's players back. The selective service draft and attractive jobs in industry hit the other teams hard, but Mansfield expects some help from the parent Cleveland Indians.

GAME BOOKED

Barnes Manufacturing company softball team opens its season this evening at Johns park against the Johns Park club at 6:15.

CHUCK BYERS

Chick Byers and Tim Mangan, veteran Mansfield Braves hurler and receiver, will form the battery for Mansfield tonight when the Braves tangle with Lima's Pandas in the Ohio State league opener at the Fairground, Manager Alex Clowson announced today.

Foutts Seeks Title Fight

Would Match Jenkins and Sammy Angott.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND — (AP)—Cleveland is bidding for a world championship lightweight fight between Lew Jenkins and Sammy Angott.

Matchmaker Ray Foutts confirmed negotiations today, declaring that if plans materialize the bout will be held in Municipal stadium this summer. The stadium seats 80,000 exclusive of ringside accommodations.

Both battlers now claim the title, Angott having recognition of the National Boxing association and Jenkins the New York state commission. Angott is from Louisville, Ky., and Jenkins from Sweetwater, Tex.

Boxing circles have been awaiting the match for some time and three steps were taken this week to put it on the fire.

Bucky Gets Bumps Too

McKeehie Picks Hurlers To Take Their Raps.

CINCINNATI — (AP)—It's getting so that every pitcher Manager Bill McKeehie says is going to work is just another guy to take the rap.

For, in the statistical mysteries of baseball records, there is no classification for losing first basemen, losing right fielders, or losing batters. It's always the losing pitcher.

Bucky Walters was yesterday's victim and, unless there is either a radical change around the Cincinnati Reds or the Brooklyn Dodgers have a private collapse, Paul Derringer may be today's. Whitlow Wyatt is Manager Leo Durocher's assigned victimizer.

It could be said that Bucky lost his own game yesterday by wild-pitching home two runs in the third inning, but all in all the Dodgers, winning their sixth straight, made only four runs to the Reds' three. Three is a high total for the Reds these days, but practically the same team frequently made many as five last year as it galloped to a world championship, and five would have won this particular ball game.

Outside of the wild pitch, Bucky showed a little better in his duel with Hugh Casey. He fanned four Dodgers and walked only three. On the other hand, Casey had the Red batters popping and rolling, which is a pretty good criterion of good pitching, too.

The loss dumped the Reds into second division.

vised Jenkins to sign for a "title" defense by July 1 and Lew indicated he would like to meet Angott; President Joe Triner of the N. B. A. urged a Jenkins-Angott scrap; and Charley Jones, the Louisville lad's manager, declared his fighter would tackle the Texan "any place and any time" for an equal share of the purse.

Billy Marquart of Chicago, who meets Angott here Monday in a non-title bout, knocked out Al Roth in the seventh round last night in New York. Jenkins takes on Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia in an over-weight match in New York Friday.

1040 Vie For Open Golf Title

Attempt To Knock Crown Off Little's Head.

NEW YORK — (AP)—A total of 1,040 entries for qualifying play, plus a flock of former champions and one individual who can be designated as the man who might have been king were lined up today for an attempt to knock the National Open Golf crown off the head of Lawson Little at Fort Worth, Tex., June 5-7. The 1040 will play qualifying rounds all over the country on May 26. The former title-holders qualify automatically and Ed (Porky) Oliver, who might have won the crown last year, has been granted entrance without sectional club-swinging by virtue of the fact that he is a soldier now.

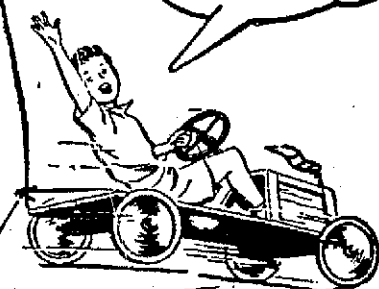

If you will recall, Oliver played dazzling golf at Cleveland last summer to windup dead-locks with Little and Gene Sarazen, only to windup finally tossed out of the tournament and out of a chance for the crown because he teed off ahead of time on his final round.

Insofar as the United States Golf association is concerned he is back in the tournament again for the time being, but he still will have to obtain permission from the army to leave Fort Dix and go to Fort Worth. If they let him play, he may be the story of the forthcoming open for Corporal Oliver can play good enough golf to bang his place in among the leaders and into the title with a fair share of the luck. In fact, he did it last year and would have had a far better chance than Sarazen to beat Little out under the conditions prevailing for the playoff. Sarazen could not hit the ball far enough on the wet course.

Fourteen former open champions were among those who sent in their entries and who, as former champions, will not have to play in the sectionals. They are:

Hallabrin Looms as Star Back

Writer Says Johnny Was Big Noise In Clinic.

By LARRY NEWMAN
COLUMBUS — (NS) — Sports potpourri gleaned along the Buckeye mainline.

Seal the name of Johnny Hallabrin, of Mansfield, in your fedora for reference when the Ohio State gridders get underway next fall.

Johnny was "the" power back in the clinic game . . . and was great defensively.

Clifford "Red" Orr, who has compiled a great basketball record at Newark high school, is in the front ranks for the cage job relinquished by Paul Bixler at Colgate university . . . and Walter "Pinky" Wilson, genial football coach at Findlay high school, is a strong contender for the head grid position at Muskingum college, vacated some months ago by Stu Holcomb, who moved on to Washington and Jefferson.

Bill Edwards, the ex-Western Reserve mentor who is now handling the reins of the Detroit Lions professional team, came to Columbus last week-end to look over Tackle Jim Daniell in the Buckeye clinic game, but went away singing the praises of Dick Fisher, the "Columbian" a "Clipper" . . . "That kid's a natural and should be okay for the pros," boomed Big Bill.

Here are just a few of the high school coaches who have been called to the service of their country.

Tibby Young, of Lima South; Nip Hime, of Alliance; Hugh Baletine, of Barnesville; Woody Hayes, of New Philadelphia; Bob Brown, of Galion, and Johnny Banyas, of Millersburg.

Eldon Newland, ace twirler of the Greenfield McClain baseball nine, hurled a near-perfect game as the Tigers shutout Pomeroy in the southeastern Ohio tournament. . . . Newland allowed no hits and but one Pomeroy batsman reached first base on the lone pass he issued.

H. R. Townsend, Ohio scholastic athletic commissioner, will be honorary referee at Bowling Green State university this Saturday, as northwestern Ohio high school tracksters vie for district honors.

Cliff Nelson, one of Wooster college's few four-sports athletes, has taken over the basketball reins at Napoleon high school along with his football duties. . . . Scotty Florence, ex-Wittenberg ace, resigned as cage mentor recently.

Fremont Ross is searching for a new candidate for head football coach after Clarence "Soup" Campbell, of Van Wert, accepted the Cleveland Shaw post . . . the other candidate the Ross officials were considering probably won't accept . . . he also was a leading

Tyger Golfers Swamp Elyria

The seventh straight decisive victory was chalked up yesterday at Possum Run by Coach Oberlander's slick swinging Mansfield high golf team when they defeated Elyria 15½ to ½.

All four Mansfielders were under the 80 mark for this match. Al Hager having a one-over-par 73, Haggerty a 78, and Davis and Collins each a 79.

For Elyria Hall shot an 82, Weigel an 83, Trocort an 85 and Prokashy an 88.

The Tyger turf terrors play today at Sandusky and tomorrow at Ashland.

contender for the Shaw post. . . .

Keep an eye on Thad Jones, high-stepping Lorain high school hurler, in the state meet at Columbus May 23-24. . . . Thad has stepped the 150-yard span in 15.5 which is plenty swift. . . . under pressure he should break the 15 mark. . . .

Larry Shropshire, sports editor of the Lexington, Ky., leader for the last four years, is now Capt. Laurence K. Shropshire of the 37th division. Shropshire, a reserve officer, relinquished the reins of the leader sports desk to Alex Bower Monday and left for Camp Shelby, Miss. . . . The captain is one of the finest turf writers in Kentucky—and the blue grass state has many fine track experts. . . .

the tickets are good for admission at any and all parks in the league.

Frank Gfrere's band will furnish music before and during the game, and that rounds out the opening night program, outside the actual playing of the game.

Twenty-five persons will be seeing the game free of charge as the result of filling winning contest of last Sunday in which contestants were asked to identify ball players' pictures which had been included in the popular feature "Introducing the Braves," which had appeared in The News-Journal.

With one exception all entries identified the Braves correctly. The one left out the name of the 12th player in the contest.

Under the rules of the contest, entries were judged for neatness and originality as well as for accuracy in identification.

The winners and their prizes were:

OHIO COLLEGE HURLER TURNS IN NO-HITTER

COLUMBUS — (NS) — Big "Stretch" McDowell, Muskingum college hurler, today entered Ohio's collegiate hall of fame after hurling the Muskies to a non-hit, 13-0 victory over the Capital university Lutherans.

Only six Lutherans reached first base, three on walks and three on errors. McDowell fanned 15.

Lo Presti was the games leading hitter, bagging a home run and three singles in five trips to the plate.

Hedges Loses League Game

Suffers First Setback Since Last October.

Hedges softballers had their first setback of the season when Newman scored a 20 to 14 victory at Liberty Park yesterday. Bowman edged Brinkerhoff 7 to 6 at North Park and West Fifth won a 8 to 7 victory over Carpenter in the two other games of the Grade School league yesterday.

It was the first athletic setback for Hedges since Coach Doris Baughman's football team was upset by Bowman last October.

In the Hedges-Newman contest, Newman took a 5 to 0 lead in the first inning. Backed by Ziegler he made five runs out of five trips to the plate. Newman held the lead which spelled defeat for Hedges.

In the second inning of the Bowman-Brinkerhoff clash, Brinkerhoff had a four run rally that put them one run ahead of Bowman, but Bowman bounced back with four runs in the third to put them ahead by a small margin.

Going into the last half of the 6th inning, West Fifth was trailing 7 to 0, but their battery started a bombardment that made eight runs for them to win the game.

Revolving around a malpractice suit resulting from a roadside operation performed after a highway accident the picture presents Bonita Granville as an ice folies star and the accident victim. Low Ayres is seen again as the young doctor in the case and Lionel Barrymore stars once more as "Dr. Gillespie." Laraine Day and Alma Kruger are in the cast.

Bombing at Sea.

A fierce bombing raid furnishes thrills in "The Long Voyage Home," showing at the Madison with John Wayne, Ian Hunter and Thomas Mitchell in the leading roles. Passengers on a British tramp steamer plying homeward, the trio participates in one of the most harrowing moments ever caught by the camera. London's famous Limehouse section is among the pictorial features. "Las Vegas Nights," the second attraction, has Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, Bert Wheeler, Phil Regan and Red Donahue.

Comedy Among Writers.

Revolving around a young writer's efforts to get his name before the public, "Blonde Inspiration," showing at the Ritz teams a pair of newcomers, John Shelton and Virginia Grey, in a rollicking comedy that has some of the season's best funmakers. Donald Meek, Charles Butterworth and Reginald Owen are in the cast. Shelton buys a magazine in order to get his stuff published and then is faced with the task of writing all copy for the sheet. Revelations of the Congo jungles are to be seen in "Leopard Men of Africa," the second feature.

COORDINATES DEFENSE PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—The University of Pennsylvania has appointed a Committee on National Defense to co-ordinate all defense activities at the university. The committee also will act as a liaison group between the university and governmental departments.

HE HAS BUTTON

AUDUBON, Ia.—(U.P.)—You can't pay off the butcher's bill with buttons, but Dwight Wickham, Audubon high school janitor, wishes he could. For about a year Wickham has been operating a sort of unofficial button reclamation bureau for the school's 300 students.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Two to Carry

ONE OF THE MEN—MUST HAVE GONE CRAZY. IT WAS LA PLATA—HE TRIPPED—

MR. WARBUCKS JUMPED IN TO TRY TO SAVE HIM—

ANY CHANCE FOR EITHER OF THEM, DOC? HARD TO SAY—IT'S VERY DOUBTFUL—

IF THAT BELT HAD BEEN CUT A SECOND LATER THERE'D HAVE BEEN NOTHING LEFT OF THEM—

OH, DADDY! DADDY! WHY DID YOU DO IT?

THERE, THERE, ANNIE—HE DID IT BECAUSE HE'S THE REAL MAN HE IS—(GRT OR WAS)—BUT HE CAN'T HEAR YOU NOW, ANNIE—

I'LL GO TO THE MEETING AND I'LL GET MY MONEY BACK OR ELSE!

ALL NAMES AND CHARACTERS USED IN THE NEBBES ARE FICTITIOUS—ANY SIMILARITY TO ACTUAL PERSONS OR NAMES OF PERSONS IS PURELY COINCIDENTAL.

GENTLEMEN, I SENT FOR ALL OF YOU TO TELL YOU THAT WHILE I'M NOT LEGALLY RESPONSIBLE FOR MR. GLOSE'S ACTIVITIES IN THIS TOWN THERE IS SOME MORAL OBLIGATION ON MY PART—

AND I'M GOING TO GIVE BACK TO YOU YOUR LOSSES—GIVE ME THE CORRECT FIGURES, AND DON'T PAD THEM, AND DON'T GO AROUND AND TELL FOLKS YOU BLUFFED ME INTO THIS—IT'S FROM THE GOODNESS OF MY HEART.

THAT'S A LAUGH FROM THE GOODNESS OF HIS HEART!

I LOST $25 AND HE KEPT MY FOUNTAIN PEN—YOUR PAY GOING TO PAY FOR THAT!

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titanla.

UGH! THAT CLAW! BRICK, THIS IS A ROC—THE KIND OF GIANT BIRD—

TOLD ABOUT BY SINBAD, THE SAILOR IN "ARABIAN NIGHTS!"

SURE! SOMETIME IN THE DISTANT PAST ONE OF THIS BIRD'S ANCESTORS MUST HAVE BECOME LOST IN THE LOWER WORLD—AND THAT'S HOW WE HAVE THE SINBAD STORY!

GOSH, JUNE, MAYBE MOST OLD FAIRY STORIES ARE BASED, LIKE THAT, ON FACT! HMM—LET'S GET BACK TO THE SHIP!

MICKEY MOUSE—Hiding Behind a Woman's Skirts.

WONDER WHAT HE DID THAT FOR!

MAYBE HE WAS TRYIN' IT ON!

YOU CAN COME OUT—MR. MOUSE!

BRINGING UP FATHER—

BUT DADDY—YOU KNOW MOTHER WANTS TO MOVE INTO AN APARTMENT—AND AFTER ALL SHE'S TRYIN' TO PLEASE YOU—WHY DON'T YOU TAKE IT OVER WITH HER?

I'LL DO IT!

WELL, IF SHE'S MOVING TO PLEASE ME—I MUST SHOW I AM INTERESTED—

YES—MR. LEE SENSELL—WE WILL TAKE THE APARTMENT—WHAT?

WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE IF MY HUSBAND HAS SEEN IT OR NOT? LIKES IT OR NOT—I'M TRYING TO PLEASE HIM—NOT YOU!

THAT'S WHAT I THOUGHT!

THE GUMPS—Counting His Chickens Before They're Hatched

WHEE! ELASTIC PLASTIC IS GOING UP AGAIN!
